

Houston DWI Defense

Article by: Max Bellamy

A Houston DWI conviction could have a far reaching effect on your life. It therefore makes sense that you know at least the fundamentals of Houston DWI laws. In case of a Houston DWI conviction, you should get in touch with a good Houston DWI lawyer to protect you. A Houston DWI attorney will be able to prepare a strong Houston DWI defense to ensure that your legal rights are not compromised. They can also help reduce charges against you.

The legal limit for intoxication in Texas is 0.08 blood alcohol concentration. You should also know that Texas has a zero tolerance law. Anyone under 21 can be arrested, no matter what the amount of detected alcohol. A good Houston attorney will be able to point out the faults in the chemical testing procedure adopted by law enforcement agencies, during a DWI conviction or arrest. A forceful defense on these lines assures you of reduced punishment and protection of your legal rights. Hiring the services of a Houston DWI attorney who is well versed with the state's laws is half the battle.

A Houston DWI attorney can prepare a strong argument in your favor by pointing out some of the mistakes that may have been committed by the law enforcement agencies during a DWI conviction or arrest. Your defense lawyer also knows how much is too much. For example the laws may be different depending on whether you are a male or a female. A DWI attorney can prepare a defense based on these. A DWI punishment also becomes harsher when you are convicted more than once. It is therefore vital that you hire the service of an experienced DWI attorney to present your case and defend your legal rights. Houston DWI Lawyers provides detailed information on Houston Alcohol Treatment, Houston DWI Arrests, Houston DWI Defense, Houston DWI Fines and more. Houston DWI Lawyers is affiliated with Houston Criminal Lawyers.