Mesothelioma is a malignant tumor of the mesothelium caused by exposure to asbestos fibers. Exposure can be due to the person's working environment. It is a serious cancerous tumor and hence the outcome of the disease can cost the person's life. So, lawsuits are filed when the person is exposed and is not brought to his knowledge. He should be made aware of the pros and cons of his working conditions. So, these people resort to filing cases and directories are of great help when it comes to finding a lawyer.

These directories maintain a whole lot of information of what a lawsuit is, how it is filed and what are the probability of winning the case, which attorney is to be contacted, referral services, and anything regarding the disease and its lawsuits.

The directories are hosted by many Web sites that also provide blogs (personal remarks from people who have filed lawsuits) about their customers' cases and the various phases of their cases. The case is weighed based on its credibility. So the person affected has to be aware of these services and the earlier he contacts them, the better. Complete information about when the exposure happened, when the tests for diagnosis were done, and what were the results of the diagnosis should be made available for the attorney to proceed further. These directories further stress that the credentials should be reliable proving that the disease was due to the exposure when the person had been an employee of the particular organization or a part of the working conditions.

These directories maintained by sites collect some basic inputs from the client and forward the case to the attorney in their area of residence or they provide means of contact making the job easier. Each case profile is maintained along with the information about the attorney who had handled the case. They can also be used to compare the lawyer's experience, his success rate and most importantly his prominence in handling mesothelioma lawsuits.
